

ISTANBUL THROUGH THE AGES

Understanding Istanbul from pre-history to present...

June 29 – July 21, 2015

Being the center of magnificent empires through time, Istanbul is calling you to explore its rich urban history and cultural heritage in a unique summer seminar. Koç University Research Center for Anatolian Civilizations is excited to invite you to take part in this in-depth program developed by Koç professors and world renowned academicians in Byzantine and Ottoman studies. This program is designed for graduate students who are interested in deepening their understanding of Istanbul and adding this value to their academic focus while having a taste of the city with over 12 million inhabitants representing a true melting pot of cultures.

The program is only open to graduate students and all instruction is in English.

Participants will stay at the RCAC Building, located in Beyoğlu/Istanbul.

Dinner will be included 4 days a week.

Upon completion of the program, each participant will be awarded 3 credits.

Airfare and visa expenses are each participant's own responsibility.

RCAC will offer a limited number of scholarships based on need and merit.

There will be study trips to relevant sites and on-going excavations in Istanbul (see program page for details).
